I'm just getting back in my office after watching a DVD that was sent by the publicity people for entertainment reporter extraordinaire, David Sheehan. After reading his bio, I figured I should at least take a look at his work. The guy is a legend in television (bio delivers the information that he proceeded even Joel Siegel) and his show "ACADEMY AWARDS MOVIE MAGIC" must be magical, right? I mean, it has the word magic in it. So of course, I watched it with the intent that I could get some other much needed work done. WRONG! It was actually very entertaining and watchable. I really wanted to get some writing for my blog finished, but could not stop looking at my small tv over in the corner of the living room. Even Bijan, my beloved kitty, had to jump down off the counter and take a look! Now that's an indication. Bijan usually falls asleep at anything I turn on. There were in depth interviews, a very candid interview with one of my all time favorites, Clint Eastwood, and some really intense clips. As a matter of fact, I am determined to make it to the theatre to see "Blood Diamond" now. I don't know if I agree with his hopes for "who wins" but there is something in the show that one can't find in even a show like Entertainment Tonight (which has been on way too long in my opinion). And that something is "umph"- yes folks-"umph"...this guy has the desire and the inspiration to do what he is doing. You can see it. I think that anyone who is going to tune into the Oscars should take a look at their local tv listings to find out when this enjoyable show airs. In Los Angeles, it will air this Sunday, February 18th on KABC at 12:30pm. A Daisy Whitney DO NOT MISS. Make sure to follow to the end when Mr. Sheehan interviews my idol, Clint Eastwood.
